

NEXUS CHAMPION ERIC NGUYEN

From when Eric first arrived at Nexus Neurorecovery Center, to the day of his discharge, he has not only enjoyed his time on campus, but has thrived.

“My biggest problem is with walking,” Eric shared. “I have been walking around the whole gym every single day.”

Staff attribute Eric’s motivation and accommodating and positive attitude to why he’s made such progress. Overall, he has shown significant progress in reading, handwriting, and learning self-care skills, in addition to improving his memory.

Before admitting their son, Eric’s family came and toured the Neurorecovery Center. Seeing all that our 26-acre campus offers and meeting our compassionate and dedicated staff brought them to the realization that Eric would benefit most from coming to our facility. Always enjoying and putting 100% into his daily therapies, Eric explained that everyone on staff has helped him throughout his journey. Now as he transitions home, Eric is even playing basketball again – one of his favorite hobbies.
