

NEXUS CHAMPION MICHAEL ADKINS

“Seeing other people progress is pretty amazing.”

Michael Adkins is indeed a champion, as seen through his consistent efforts at Nexus Neurorecovery Center. Because he made rehabilitation a priority, Michael has continued to improve from the stroke he suffered three months prior to his stay at Nexus Neurorecovery Center.

His wife, Marcia, recalls that “he could not even roll over in bed by himself... he couldn’t get up or down.”

However, now that he has completed this portion of his recovery journey, and worked hard at every therapy, Michael is able to go home to his family.

When asked about his care, Michael said, “I think y’all do some amazing work here.” His wife seconded that notation by explaining, “There is a lot of TLC here that made a huge difference in him.”

“Everybody who has visited, from my niece and nephews, to friends, have enjoyed feeding the fish,” Adkins shared. “We’ve enjoyed the walks. It is a beautiful facility.”

While Michael is grateful for the opportunity to come to Nexus Neurorecovery Center – and is happy to be where he is at in his therapeutic progress – he has become a welcomed sight to all of the staff and will be missed.
